for Ohio House of Representatives District 29

*"You cannot expect a problem to be fixed by the people who created it.
Now is the time for true problem solvers to step up and make meaningful changes that benefit the taxpaying voters."*

Running for office is not something that I ever expected to be doing but our current representatives are doing nothing to help the taxpayers who elected them. Over the last couple of years I have been focused on township and school district issues. In both cases the soaring rate of property taxes is strongly influenced by poor policies enacted in Columbus. We need to take action at the foundation of the problem and we will need the support of all dedicated citizens to win in March and have a chance to start making real change in Ohio.

Focus on:

- Restoring Individual Liberty • Reducing Taxpayer Burden • Improve Education Quality/Funding

"I am not a politician. I am a frustrated voter looking to take a more active role in solving the issues we have in Ohio."
